Key Discussions

Australia ranks twelfth out of 24 functional democracies left in the world today, and it is measures of social support that put us that low. Is that where we want to be?

Our young people are more immediately and harmfully impacted by global mega trends like social media and climate change than ever before. How can we support them to maintain and improve their mental health and wellbeing?

The Indigenous peoples of this land are still protecting and promoting the longest surviving culture on the planet. How do we work with and learn from them?

Especially, how do we do that in a hotter world with natural disasters affecting more of us every day?
