

Festival for Peace

Music, forums, workshops and events for children

Presented by a chorus of women

28 April – 2 May

Albert Hall,
Canberra

Peace on Earth — Peace with the Earth

Saturday 2 May, 10.30–12.30 pm,
Commonwealth Ave, Canberra

A facilitated forum about the links between peace and environmental issues

*With Professor Will Steffen, Bishop
Stephen Pickard, Dr Helen Cleugh, Anne Lanyon and others*

Facilitator: Professor Kate Rigby

This forum will explore questions about a ‘safe operating space’ for life on Earth, and the interrelationship between peace and justice among people and between humans and the Earth itself, particularly in relation to climate change.

Cost: $20

Related event for music lovers: Songs of Passion and Compassion

Friday 1 May, 8 pm

This concert will feature new local compositions by Judith Clingan AM and Honey Nelson that give voice to the truths of many sufferings, and call to our higher humanity to redress these injuries to peoples, animals and the Earth itself. The songs will be performed by an ensemble of local singers and instrumentalists.

Cost $25

The Festival for Peace is inspired by the centenary of the International Congress of Women held at The Hague in April 1915.

The centrepiece of the festival is the performances of A Passion for Peace, a new choral and dramatic work by Glenda Cloughley, musical direction by Johanna McBride

Full festival program and ticket information:

www.chorusofwomen.org

Concessions available for pensioners and students
Children under 12 free